The Adventure of the Phone Hacker

By James Macpherson and Natasha Winter

Plot Outline

- Moriarty has created an app which becomes the next worldwide craze. The app asks personal questions and can track the user.

- The app can shut down police devices so that the hackers can not be detected.

- Reported kidnapping that keeps occurring are thought to be linked to the app, but there is no evidence to back this up.

Blurb

- It's been a long time since anything had happened and they were starting to feel like they were no longer needed. When the next craze on the app store is created and young children start to go missing will people go running back to the best detective in the world? This is one of the worst crimes in all of history and this is one global scale! Would take the risk and download the app?

Characters

- Sherlock Holmes
- John Watson
- Jim Moriarty
- Josh Smith
- Tracy Smith

Opening Paragraphs

Cloud covered 221b Baker street as Holmes and I lay in our den, bored out of our brains waiting for a case to appear. " More tea", declared Mrs Hudson. Sherlock's silent response indicated that he did not want more. At exactly 4:04 Sherlock shot up and marched out of the room like he was a guard in front of Buckingham Palace.

Around 2 hours later, once Holmes had returned, Mrs Hudson had made us a very appealing dinner and it was obvious that Holmes had more of a spring in his step. " So Sherlock why the change in your tune all of a sudden?"
"My dear Watson, I have found us a very appealing case to work on. Something about an app that seems to be the new craze.
"Oh yes Sherlock I have heard about that in the news. So when do we start"

9.00am Sharp, the following day Sherlock and I set off to the Scotland yard to gather more information about this new craze. Before we left I researched newspaper articles about this app and found out that people who have purchased this app have been hooked! Lestrade had more information for us about one boys phone that was found with the application open. He had disappeared. So the case is on…